

The CLASSIC MALTS Cruise

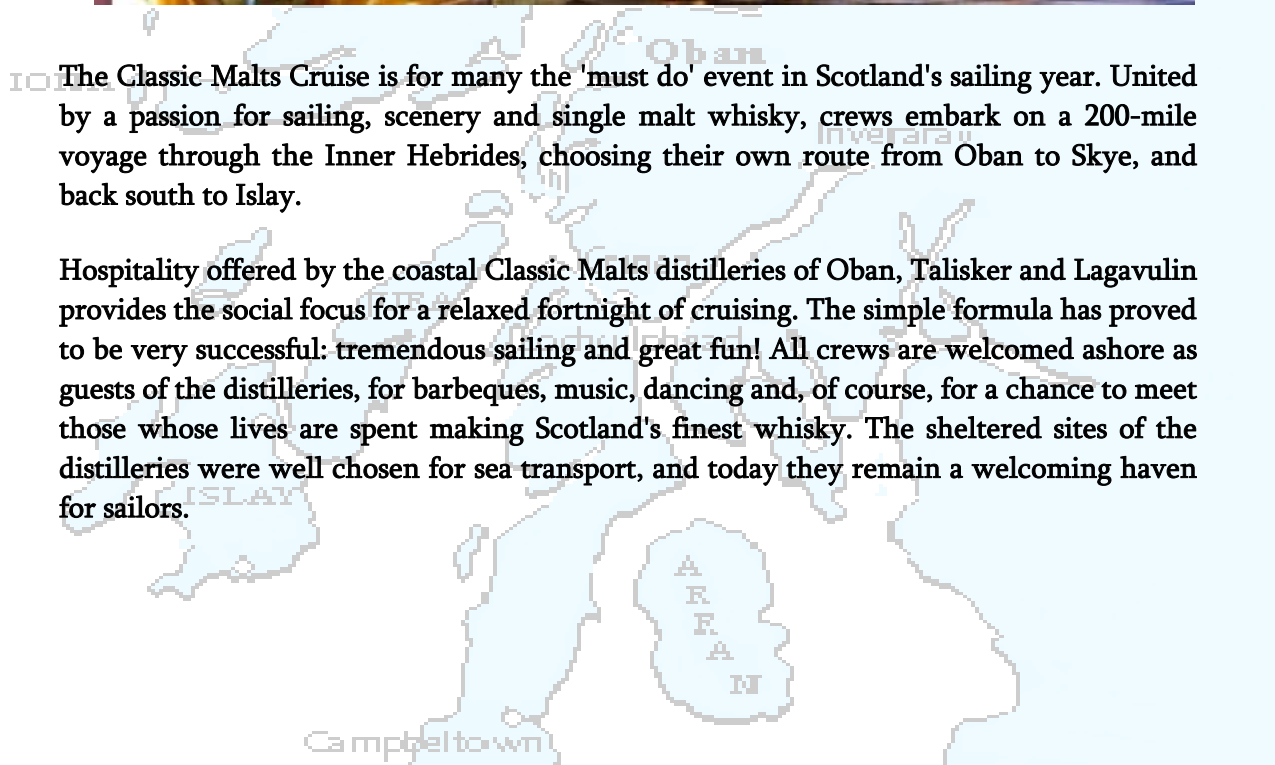

A unique cruising event in Scotland's finest waters

Oban - Talisker - Lagavulin
15th July - 29th July 2006

The Classic Malts Cruise is for many the 'must do' event in Scotland's sailing year. United by a passion for sailing, scenery and single malt whisky, crews embark on a 200-mile voyage through the Inner Hebrides, choosing their own route from Oban to Skye, and back south to Islay.

Hospitality offered by the coastal Classic Malts distilleries of Oban, Talisker and Lagavulin provides the social focus for a relaxed fortnight of cruising. The simple formula has proved to be very successful: tremendous sailing and great fun! All crews are welcomed ashore as guests of the distilleries, for barbeques, music, dancing and, of course, for a chance to meet those whose lives are spent making Scotland's finest whisky. The sheltered sites of the distilleries were well chosen for sea transport, and today they remain a welcoming haven for sailors.
